

Drawing Analysis
Saturday, July 30
TUTOR: Ali Gillett

$220 per person.
10 participants.
9:00 am to 3:00 pm
Single day workshop

What you can Expect

Analysis may not sound like the most exciting of ventures, but let me assure you that once you learn this nifty series of rules and theories, your drawing life will be changed forever!

Drawing Analysis gives me the courage to get started and the means to critique and correct as I go. Over time this has meant that I am much more proficient and adept at creating my own works, as well as helping students with theirs.

This single day workshop will cover methods of drawing and analysis, as well as the importance of critique and the inherent value in being wrong, something that we will all be if we dare to create art. Extreme beginners to the more advanced welcome!

Each participant will walk away with a take-home learning booklet as well as copious amounts of sketches and information to keep them company.

Important to note that this is a skill building workshop, you will be walking away with many notes, examples, and fresh information as opposed to a work of art.

30 minute Workshop Materials List
